

Wittenberg University

Presents

Paul Tough

Author of Whatever It Takes: Geoffrey Canada's Quest To Change Harlem and America

"Building a Culture that Supports Student Achievement for Students Who Come from Poverty: Lessons Learned from the Harlem Children's Zone"

When: 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, October 28, 2009

Where: Springfield High School

Paul Tough is an editor at the New York Times Magazine and one of America's foremost writers on poverty, education, and the achievement gap. His reporting on Geoffrey Canada and the Harlem Children's Zone originally appeared as a Times Magazine cover story. In his presentation to the Springfield community, Paul Tough will describe the incredible work of the Harlem Children's Zone as he explains what Geoffrey Canada learned when he posed the question, "What would it take to change the lives of poor children?"

Event Sponsors: Wittenberg University's Institute for Education Innovation, Faculty Endowment Fund Board, Departments of Education, English and Communication, and the Center for Civic and Urban Engagement

Partner Sponsors:

Clark County Family and Children First Council
Springfield Area Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa
Aspire P-16 Collaborative
Springfield and Clark County Schools
Wittenberg Upward Bound Program

Partial funding for this event is also made possible through a Department of Education Congressionally-Funded Grant to Wittenberg's Department of Education

This free event is open to all members of the community.