A Newsletter of the Clark County Department of Job and Family Services

Turning Lemons Into Lemonade

Robert Suver, Director*Clark County Department of Job and Family Services

Over the last year or so we have purposely been preparing for the possibility of ever worsening financial news. The bad news we have already received includes: a current no-growth state budget that has had trouble delivering on the funds promised, Children's Service placement pressures that are just beginning to ease off of record high cost levels, insufficient state funding for Child Support Enforcement that had stayed the same or declined the past six years, and ODJFS improperly using TANF funds for Food Stamps and Medicaid services that has resulted in the end of the county consolidated flexible funding stream.

The as-yet unknown 06-07 state budget is the next upcoming event that has the potential of being a tsunami of red ink. So how prepared are we to withstand these financial pressures?

We are currently carrying about $450,000 in TANF performance incentives that can assist us in getting through some rough spots. We have set ourselves up to redirect $800,000 annually from the 10 - 15 youth at the Children's Home, to the 200 youth in other

Out-of-Home placements. We are well along in the conversion of our 10 million paper documents to digital images, and using the latest in software technology to work with them. This will save time and money by eliminating numerous steps and duplication, while providing better service. We've implemented a one-year early retirement buyout with a one-time cost of $700,000, and annual savings of 1.4 million dollars. This has allowed 26 staff to retire, and our staff-to-supervisor ratio to move from 7 - 1, to 10 - 1. This is similar to how Montgomery County DJFS has been operating for sometime. It is also twice the 5 to 1 ratio the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services has in their state offices. We have been merging certain common functions across program divisions, which include Central Records, Customer Service, and the M.I.S units. Ultimately as merges are fully affected, costs in general will be reduced, while maintaining, or improving customer service.

With the end of the consolidated flexible funding concept it was essential that we have sufficient matching funds so that each separate program's funding stream is adequate to meet the varied needs of our community. State and county resources are not as available as we would like to ensure that customers are provided with what is needed to make a difference, not just what we might have to offer. For this reason, we sought out and were able to establish a collaborative partnership with the Turner Foundation.

This is unique in that a private multifaceted foundation, and a public multi-faceted entity such as ourselves, have joined together to utilize a portion of their respective resources to the maximum extent possible, so as to address the pressing needs of the community we both serve. This partnership provides us with the matching funds necessary to maximize federal funding resulting in upwards of $1 million annually coming into the community across all program divisions that otherwise would not be possible.

The changes made to prepare have been significant: 7% staff reduction, more output through technology, reorganization in every division, and new collaboration and partnerships. We are better prepared to meet the challenges that may come because of the changes we have made, and that's how you make lemonade out of a lemon. #

The Child Support Agency has been the entry point for a pilot program designed by Marriage Savers of Clark County (MSCC), and Clark County Department of Job and Family Services (CCDJFS), for the purpose of providing couples who have a child with the tools to improve the health and quality of their relationship and the ability to focus on a common bond, their child.

Parents as Partners

This program is based on the book entitled, "Before You Tie the Knot, Let Us Show You the Ropes," by Rudy and Faith Buettner with Mike and Harriett McManus. The starting point is a survey, which allows the couple to determine what strengths each person brings to the relationship. During seven sessions, the results of the survey are used to discuss communication skills, personality issues, problem solving, parenting issues, managing money, developing trust and respect, love and values, commitment and planning the future well being of their child – emotionally, spiritually, mentally and financially.

Taxes

VITA Site Now Available at Clark County DJFS

This tax season, the Clark County Department of Job and Family Services has opened an IRS Certified VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) Program. CCDJFS employees and partners from OIC and Del Pueblo have joined together to provide free tax services for our community. The VITA site workers obtained IRS Certification after taking seven hours of tax law and basic tax preparation training, as well as successfully passing a test. A local CPA, Ed Garrity, from Clark Schaeffer Hackett & Co., graciously volunteered his time to provide the training necessary.

The site is electronically filing basic 1040EZ and 1040A returns with no itemized deductions and no retirement, pension, or social security income. Community members may call 327-1770 for a screening process. An appointment time will be given if the caller meets eligibility. Appointments are required and are based on a first come, first served basis, and take 45 minutes or less. Hours of operation are Monday and Wednesdays from 4:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.. Saturday hours are also available from 8:00 a.m. to noon if needed. The site will be open thru April 13th.

The VITA Site is also educating the community on the Federal Earned Income Credit (EIC). This is a refundable federal tax credit for low and moderate income working individuals and families who have income under certain levels. Many people have heard of the program, but do not understand if they qualify. The requirements are few and filing for the credit is simple.

Incentives in the form of Walmart or Meijer's gift cards in $10, $20, and $25 increments are given to individuals completing sessions one, four, and seven.

Marriage Savers and Clark County Department of Job and Family Services believe that commitment is the foundation of healthy relationships. Trust, respect, and dependability evolve from commitment, and children who are raised in healthy relationships become responsible adults. #

This issue of E-Alert was produced using larger size type for better readability. Because "electronic" newsletters, like E-Alert, are viewed on different size computer screens, larger type sizes reduce the need for readers to zoom in and out. So, let us know what you think. Special note: When output on your printer, the type of this newsletter will appear very large.

YES ON ISSUE 1

Mental Health Levy

On May 3 the Mental Health & Recovery Board of Clark County will have a 1.65 mill levy on the ballot. We encourage you to vote YES on MENTAL HEALTH.

Here's why:

- During 2004, approximately 6,200 patients/clients received services.
- 1 in every 23 residents of Clark County receives services supported by the levy.
- 26% of those receiving levy supported services are children.
- The number of seniors receiving services has doubled in the last 5 years.
- We anticipate seeing over 30% more people in 2005 than we saw 5 years ago.

Election Day
May 3

Here's what happens if the levy doesn't pass:

- $800,000 to $1,000,000 will be cut from services.
- Waiting times for services will increase dramatically.
- Programs that serve children and teenagers, victims of domestic violence and senior citizens will be cut or eliminated.

Here's how much it costs:

- Less than an additional 10 cents a day for a $100,000 home.
