

Computer Skills Program Connects Ohio Workers With Job Success

One of the many successes WorkPlus of Clark County experienced over 2011 was the implementation of the Connect Ohio program.

Connect Ohio is a basic computer course that WorkPlus customized to revolve around computer skills needed to be successful with online job searching and career development.

As a training site, WorkPlus has trained 586 participants since February 2011, for an average of 9 students per session.

Due to the program's success, WorkPlus along with Clark State Community College was invited to present at the Connect Ohio Technology Association meeting in December 2011. Instructors Dillon Charney and Jennifer Light presented on the successes of the Connect Ohio program, specifically how it has been integrated into a job readiness curriculum triggering an increase in enrollment.

In large part, due to the success and partnership WorkPlus and Clark State have had with Connect Ohio, Clark State Community College was awarded as the "All Star Facility" for the final quarter of 2011.
